Goldwater Attacks Foreign Policy In Louisville Speech

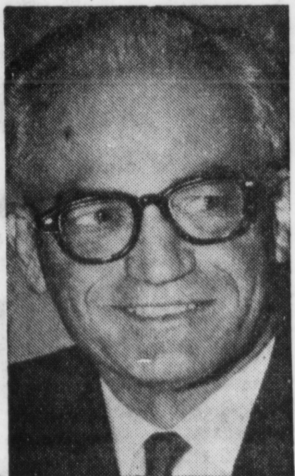

Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater defended his foreign policy stand in a campaign speech in Louisville Friday night, and applied a whip-lash to the Democratic Administration's conduct of the Cold War.

Goldwater, who has been criticized extensively by the Democrats for being "trigger happy" in opening his address by saying: "The theme of our campaign is clear: Peace through preparedness, progress through freedom, and purpose through constitutional order."

In this speech, he renewed prior campaign charges that:

1. U. S. soldiers are "sent out to fight and to die, with obsolete equipment."
2. President Johnson "gave the Communist enemy an eler in advance of a crucial counter-attack" at Tonkin Gulf.
3. The administration, under the late President John F. Kennedy, "yielded to the propaganda cries of those who wanted to neutralize Viet Nam" and acquiesced in the overthrow of the Diem Regime.
4. United States prestige in the world "has dipped below the peril point."

Goldwater ended his talk by challenging President Johnson to a debate, a subject that has been bandied back and forth

Hazard Retailers Start Drive On Anti-Shoplifting

Ivan Jett, Executive Vice President of the Kentucky Retail Federation, announced today that the retailers of Hazard, have started an Anti-Shoplifting Drive and all violators will be prosecuted. According to Jett, retailers regret that this is necessary, but due to the increase in shoplifting, both by adults and "teenagers", this has become necessary.

He went on to say that very little shoplifting is done because of actual need. This is especially true among teenagers. Usually the teenager takes the item merely because he desires it or in order to get a thrill by "taking a chance". In the latter case the teenagers throw the item away after he steals it. In some instances however, the item is taken for resale purposes or in order to be a member of a club that requires stealing.

Jett suggests that parents should question their children carefully if they come home with an item that they say was found or someone gave it to them.

He has also served as research consultant in Psychology and visiting professor in Education and Psychology at the University of Kentucky. Heart Attack Claims Prominent Physician W.F. O'Donnell, Jr.

Dr. William F. O'Donnell, Jr., a prominent Hazard physician and surgeon died Thursday, September 24, at his home in Woodland Park, from a heart attack. His unexpected death came as a shock to the community where he had practiced medicine for 18 years.

Dr. O'Donnell, 46, was a native of Richmond and was educated in Richmond schools and Eastern State College. He attended the University of Louisville Medical School and interned at Hartford Municipal Hospital, Hartford, Conn.

He entered the Army on completion of his internship and served two years of military duty. After his discharge, he came to Hazard in 1946 as a staff member of the old Hazard Hospital.

When the hospital was sold in 1947 to the Benedictine Sisters, Dr. O'Donnell, with Dr. Cooley Combs and the late Drs. James Hagan and Martin Palmer, founded the Hazard Clinic.

In 1948, Dr. O'Donnell was instrumental in warning the American Medical Association, and through them, the Food and Drug Administration, of a shipment of contaminated glucose.

His action resulted in seizure of several hundred bottles and prevented what could have been disastrous consequences.

Always interested in this region, Bill O'Donnell was one of the original investors in the Town House and La Citadelle Motels, which were built when there was no proof that such facilities were needed in this section. Since their erection, they have served as pilots for a tourist industry.

Dr. O'Donnell was, at one time, owner of the Hazard Herald, which he purchased to insure Hazard a continuing paper.

He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Municipal Housing Board, and served as team physician for HHS teams.

In addition to being on the staff at Mount Mary Hospital and the Appalachian Regional Hospital, he was on the staff of the Frontier Nursing Service at Hyden.

He was a member of the Perry County Medical Society, the American Medical Association, and the American Hospital Association.

Circular Insert Specially Designed

O'Donnell, Richmond, President Emeritus of Eastern State College, and Mrs. O'Donnell; a brother, James, of Ridgeway, N. Humphrey Pledges Democratic Support To Appalachia Area

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey carried the LBJ pennant into Appalachia Saturday with a trip into Prestonsburg, bringing with him a bread-and-butter message promising the Democratic Party's full effort to aid America's victims of poverty.

He criticized Goldwater for ob-region."

scuring the plight of the poor in a mass of statistics and said, "Americans are people, not bloodless statistics. In the economics of Goldwaterism, poverty, it seems, is a 'relative matter'."

Humphrey told his audience that passage of the Administration's Appalachian recovery program is "vital because it will develop the economic base of the region, the roads and the waterways, the provision of power and light and all the utilities and services which form the basis for services and industry."

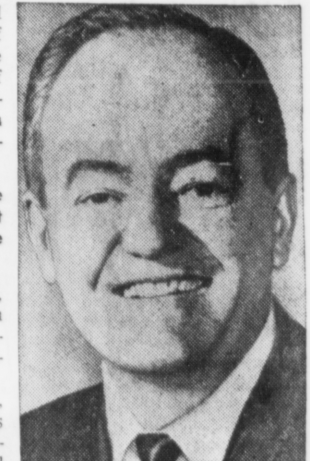

Humphrey said the measure would be the catalyst that would start Appalachia on the road to economic well-being.

"As President Kennedy noted, the region has become, through no fault of its own or of its people, the most severely distressed area of the nation."

"So John F. Kennedy began, and Lyndon B. Johnson has continued, to promote a program to restore, revitalize and stabilize the economy of this

Continuing his fire on Goldwater, Humphrey said, "Men who are truly strong do not talk tough, nor advocate policies of bluff, belligerence, and brinksmanship."

And concluded, "this is no time to play Russian roulette with a nuclear arsenal."

Hazard Edges Belfry, 14-13, In Exciting Class AA, Region 4 Game

By Ben Fitzpatrick

In their finest effort of the season, Hazard's Bulldogs edged by Belfry, 14-13, at Belfry Saturday night behind the driving defensive play of Tackle O. J. Rowe and the passing arm of Bill Morgan. Hazard is now 5-0.

Hazard, a two-point favorite, had to recover from two costly early fumbles and turn in an outstanding defensive game to stop the ground attack of a big-hard-running Pirate backfield, and though it took a valiant, determined, defensive effort by Hazard's forward wall, it was the fired-up effort and stunting of Rowe that finally stopped the Pirates.

Senior Jimmy Walker also turned in a brilliant game, personally tossing Belfry backs for losses totaling 23 yards and scoring the second touchdown on an exciting pass and run play covering 59 yards.

But to earn the Win, Hazard had to turn to the passing arm of Morgan, who completed six of 10 for 131 yards, three to glue-fingered end Freddy Hogg, two to Walker, and one to HB Keith Reynolds. Reynolds took up the running slack that was left when Belfry keyed its defensive line on HB Houston Hogg, allowing him only 35 yards in 10 carries.

The Bulldogs got off to a bad start as they received the kickoff and fullback Freddy Barnett fumbled on the first play when a Belfry lineman punched the ball from his grasp.

Two off-tackle plays netted four yards for the Pirates before 190-pound HB Darryl Bogar ripped through for 11 yards to the Canine 14. On the next play, Bogar was stopped cold. Quarterback Bob Burgett tried a roll-out right and was smashed down by Walker back on the 26. That made it 4th-and-22.

Burgett then stepped calmly into the pocket and threaded a strike down the middle to Bogar for a touchdown with 7:52 remaining in the first quarter. James McKee's kick was good and Belfry led 7-0.

After the kickoff, the Bulldogs could gain but six yards and had to punt. Belfry took over on their 38 and two plays later, Reynolds intercepted a pass thrown by halfback Frank Guyton on the Hazard 30 and returned it to the 37.

Hogg was racked for no gain and a Morgan pass fell incomplete before he hit F. Hogg in the right flat with a 27-yarder to the Belfry 36. A 15-yard roughness penalty moved the ball to the 31. Jerry Combs swept right for three yards, but fumbled and Belfry recovered on the 23.

The Pirates began a march up the field, moving to the Hazard 21 on nine plays, highlighted by a 20-yard run up the middle by 210-pound Boy Phillips.

At this point, Hazard stiffened and guard David Stanford caught HB Scott Smith behind the line for a five-yard loss and Walker threw Burgett for an 11-yard loss back to the 37. A pass failed and Hazard had held.

Starting on their 11, Hazard moved 89 yards in 7 swift plays for their first score. After Hogg picked up four, Jerry Robinson scooted around left end for 18. Reynolds added five and Morgan hit F. Hogg with a perfect toss down the middle for 20 to the 42. He then passed to Reynolds in the left flat for 12. Hogg churned five to the 25 and Reynolds skirted left end for the score with 5:02 showing in the second stanza.

Morgan's extra point try twisted and turned over the right side of the uprights and for an agonizing eternity the referees debated before calling it good, knotting the score at 7-7.

Both teams traded the ball before half, with Hazard penetrating to the 19 after an important fumble recovery by alert Tom Manning, but HB Bervin Collins was stopped short on a 4th-and-three play.

Belfry took the second half kickoff and actually ran over Hazard enroute to chalking up their second TD. It started on the 34 with Bogar turning the end for 16 to the 50, then hitting the middle for two. Then the 195-pound bulldozing Guyton ran roughshod

Area Workshop For Restaurant Owners To Be Held At Prestonsburg Oct. 7

"Small restaurants can do a big business," will be the theme of a 3-day area workshop for restaurant operators, workers, and handlers of quantity foods scheduled at the Community College, Prestonsburg, starting at 9:00 a.m., October 7. The other two dates for these sessions are October 14, and October 21. Registration fee will be $2.00.

This workshop which is designed to help restaurants make bigger profits, is sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project in cooperation with the Kentucky Restaurant Association, the State Health Department, State Dept. of Parks, and State and Local Chambers of Commerce.

According to Mrs. Carolyn Schrock, resource development specialist of the sponsoring group, registration will start at 9:00 a.m., Wednesday, October 7, to be followed by a welcoming address, a statement of objectives, and introduction of participants.

This will be followed by a "tasting party" for new commercial food products on the market by J. Heckman, executive secretary of the Louisville Wholesale Grocers Association, and Don Eckard of the Kentucky Restaurant Association in charge.

Next Bob Finley of the U.S. Department of Interior Fish and Wildlife Division will demonstrate fish cookery and new ways to prepare fish for greater profit.

The afternoon sessions will feature instruction in menu planning by Miss Elizabeth Helton and in food salesmanship by Mrs. Schrock.

The second day of the workshop on October 14, will take up the subject of meat cookery with Paul Doh of the American Hotel and Restaurant Meat Purveyors, as instructor. There will also be information on simplified accounting for restaurants by John S. Baxter of the Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project, and a panel discussion on "Restaurant Operator Opportunity" moderated by Curtis Clark, executive secretary of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce.

The third day of the session (October 21) will be devoted to a lecture and demonstration on the subject of "Hot Breads and Commercial mixes" by Barry Schermer, area representative of Pillsbury Company and instruction by Bill Montgomery & Lloyd Parsons, State Health Department, on restaurant sanitation. The workshop will be concluded with the awarding of certificates by the Vice-President of the University of Kentucky.

Because good food and good service are basic to tourism which is becoming one of the major income producing enterprises in Eastern Kentucky, sponsors of this workshop and two other workshops of kind scheduled at Corbin and Ashland, feel that the instruction provided will enable restaurant owners, operators, cooks, and waitresses to do a better job serving visitors and thus make greater profits.

Get ready for some of the best news ever made by the amazing, arcane Aloe Vera. This primitive tropical plant, often mentioned in the Bible, has a long and fantastic history. And its future should be even more exciting, because of the rich, crystal-clear gel to be found in its spiny, prickly leaves, now growing luxuriantly in Florida. According to ancient lore, this gel has remarkable curative powers. As early as 333 B.C., the Greeks had identified the Aloe plant as a medicinal herb. Second Dynasty Chinese utilized it, dramatically, in curing skin disease. Much more recently, it has been found highly effective in healing bad burns.

Considering all this, our news has to be exceptional, and it is: at last, somebody—Aloe Creme Laboratories—has found a way to use for cosmetic purposes the gel of the Aloe Vera plant—known to be regenerative to skin tissues after destructive burns.

If this particular news does not yet seem earth-shaking, wait until you've observed the results after even short-term use of any (or all) of the Aloe-Cosmetics series. The precious gel goes to work in the creamy lotion called Alo-Face, for instance, and brings forth a soft silky surface.

And that's not all: there are Alo-Hands, Alo-Body, Alo Legs, Alo-Shampoo, Alo Lipstick, to name a few, who medications and splendid tanning preparations to accompany your winter plans for sunbasking. These cosmetics dear only in what they might do for you—their cost, in are dear only in what they might do for you—their cost, individually, ranges from $1.50* to

Ah, So Good: Oriental Casserole

Fascinating is the word for Oriental Casserole. An unusual combination of crisp and tender textures, mild and sharp flavors, and variety in the shapes of its ingredients, it makes a conversational-dish to set before family and friends.

There's no trick to making Oriental Casserole. Start with a simple cream sauce and add some shredded cheese; cook until melted and smoothly blended. Nice thing about this recipe, it uses an entire 8-ounce wedge of sharp natural Cheddar cheese so there's no measuring to do and the sauce has a rich cheese flavor. The wedge is easy to hold for shredding, too. Made from whole milk, it adds a bonus of good nutrition as well as flavor to the dish. Once the cheese-rich sauce is seasoned and completed, all that's left is to combine the rice, chicken, water chestnuts and mushrooms and layer the mixture with the sauce in a casserole. The noodles go on last, and the dish is baked for a short 25 minutes.

Oriental Casserole is especially suitable for a buffet supper, being easy to serve, easy to eat, and providing 8 to 10 generous servings. Accompany it with a variety of hard and soft rolls, and follow it with a fruit cup and beverage for dessert and you'll have a menu of unusual interest and appeal.

Oriental Casserole

2 tablespoons Parkay
2 cups cooked rice
1 1/2 cups milk
1 8-oz. wedge Sharp Natural Cheddar Cheese, shredded
1/2 teaspoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 8-oz. can water chestnuts, sliced
1 3-oz. can sliced mushrooms, drained
1 3-oz. can chow mein
noodles
Make a cream sauce with margarine, flour and milk. Add cheese and seasonings; heat until cheese is melted. Combine rice, chicken, water chestnuts and mushrooms. Alternate layers of rice mixture and sauce in a 2-quart casserole; arrange noodles around edge of casserole. Bake at 350°, 25 minutes. 8 to 10 servings.

HAZARD

BEN FITZPATRICK

Saturday was quite a day for area sport fans. First, Kentucky observed Dedication Day with a thorough thrashing of Ole Miss, then some baseball team moved out front in the pennant race over the Phillies, and finally, Hazard nipped Belfry, 14-13.

Those who made the long journey to Belfry were not disappointed. It was an excellent ball game and took Hazard's best effort of the season to beat a huge Pirate eleven, and let no one kid you, a real good football team.

Belfry sent their big backs (190, 195, 210) into Hazard's line time after time in an attempt to wear the Dogs down, but a superb defensive surge kept Hazard from defeat.

Middlesboro coach Walt Green, by way of the Courier-Journal, called O. J. Rowe the "state's best tackle" in an article and O. J. lived up to that flowery terminology as he played the game of his life. Many times he was the only one who could rap the big Belfry backs to the ground.

A neutral observer at the game, coach Ed Wilson of the M. C. Napier Navajos, said of Rowe's performance, "never in my life have I seen more effort, more determination, more internal fortitude than Rowe displayed against Belfry." The coach continued, "I kept a tackling chart on the game and Rowe got 24, nine unassisted."

Jimmy Walker also turned in his finest effort, making several key tackles in the Belfry backfield and scoring the tying touchdown on a beautiful fake-and-run after receiving a Bill Morgan aerial.

The rest of the line deserves accolades too. David Stanford played on a leg that many of us could not walk on, Freddy Hogg effectively kept Belfry's running attack inside and made several brilliant pass receptions, Tom Manning captained the defensive line well and pounced on an important Belfry fumble, David Olinger was a defensive tiger for the second week in a row and his quick lateral movement and diving tackles were instrumental, Vernon Cooper, Fred Barnett, and Bob Marcum all gave 110 percent, and it was needed.

Hazard's running offense sputtered and coughed for the second straight game, having to depend on the arm of QB Bill Morgan, one of the state's best passers, to move up and down the field.

Just what is wrong with the ground game is anybody's guess, but from this corner it appears that backfield timing is off and some backs continually miss their hole. Keith Reynolds and Morgan are quite good in picking their way through the line. Too, we must give a lot of credit to the charged-up defensive lines of Whitesburg and Belfry as they fought the Dogs hard for every single yard.

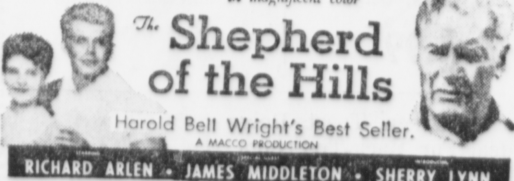

The Bulldogs seldom open up their offensive attack, but when they do and begin to pass, no one has been able to stop them. Hazard will have to depend a great deal on their passing attack if they expect to get through their next five games, unscathed because all of their final opponents have big, rugged lines.

Just the thought of Hazard spreading their ends and using a flanker back is exciting because I have seen what Morgan can do and what his 6.4 targets, Walker and F. Hogg can do, and the potential is fantastic. But we are quick to point out there must be a good running game to keep the defense honest—and that will be up to Houston Hogg to return to form and Reynolds to continue his improvement.

UKats Destroy Ole Miss In 27-21 Upset Struggle

"I've never in my life been torn up so badly by anybody. I'm just surprised the final score wasn't much worse." Emphatic, yet dejected words from Mississippi coach Johnny Vaught as he summarized his team's one-sided walloping at the hands of a dedicated, fired-up band of Kentucky Wildcats Saturday in what just might be the collegiate upset of the past decade.

It was perhaps the greatest football victory in Wildcat history as the Cats rallied again and again to gain a 27-21 win over the nation's number one ranked team.

Rick Norton, the fellow who was a sensational passer in high school, but who hadn't lived up to expectations as a collegiate gridster, had his greatest hour — at a time when the Wildcats needed him most.

He was called "Another Babe Parilli" and "Another George Mira" as he crammed a defeat down the throats of the team which was ranked as the best in the land.

And another Rick-end Rick Kestner — put on one of the greatest pass-catching exhibitions ever seen in the south.

Tommy Becherer also made a major contribution to the victory with some brilliant pass-snatching.

The first play of the game was a tip off of things to come. It was an electrifying play that saw Rodger Bird fire a long, long pass to Becherer for what appeared to be a touchdown. But Kentucky sent an illegal receiver downfield while Bird was sidestepping would-be tacklers deep in Kentucky territory.

Passes	18-34	11-20

Norton fired 30 passes and completed 15 for 236 yards. He should have earned Back of the Week honors nationally for this performance.

Next week, Kentucky will play Auburn at Stoll Field and it is expected that the Tigers will be ranked No. 1 in the nation with Ole Miss tumbling from the elite.

Kestner was sensational with his pass-catching. He hauled down nine for 175 yards—only 12 yards less than Ole Miss garnered by rushing and passing.

When Kestner came to Kentucky three years ago, Bradshaw said, "Rick can be just as good as he wants to be." Apparently the youngster from Stone (Ky., that is) wanted to be good. Few teams—let alone one individual—can register three touchdowns against Ole Miss, but Kestner did Saturday. He's from a little community which has a population of less than 1,000. Today, though all of Kentucky was pulling for the 6-1 junior flanker.

Although Bird didn't get into the scoring act, the "Corbin Comet" played a vital role. When "Roger the Dodger" was called upon, he was right there. He led the UKats with 67 yards in 12 carries: McGraw gained 57 in a dozen totes and Antonini picked up 16 yards in five carries.

One of McGraw's was that 21-yard smash on a draw play—and it was one of the key plays of the afternoon.

Ole Miss fullback Buster Kim led the Rebels from his full back slot with 37 yards in 10 carries. In passing Norton hit 15 of 30 for 236 yards—something that hasn't hit Ole Miss in a long time. Todd, who filled in exceptionally well, connected on two in three efforts for 15 yards while Bird was on target in his only fling for 32 yards.

Weatherly fired 19 times and 11 found the mark for 111 yds.

Hazard Trips Belfry, 14-13, For 5th Consecutive Victory

through Hazard's line, picking up 15 to the 33, and after a six-yard gain by Bogar, 21 to the six before the safety, Combs, could finally drag him down.

Bogar cut around left end to the one and Hazard was penalized to the 1 1/2 yard line. Guyton ran into a stone wall, but Burgett scored on a sneak, sending the Pirates out front 13-7.

McKee's extra point kick was blocked by a hard-charging line led by Rowe.

Hogg could return the kickoff only to the 17. Reynolds, Cox, Robinson, and Cox again alternated the ball to the 31. Morgan's pass into the middle was incomplete, but he then hit Walker in the same spot for 10 to the 41.

Morgan dropped back and spotted Walker racing down the left sideline and hit him perfectly on the 25. Walker hip-faked the covering Belfry back with a beautiful move and stormed toward the end zone for the score as a Pirate back tackled him on the one, bouncing the 6-4 junior in for the six points.

Morgan's all-important kick split the uprights and Hazard went on top 14-13 with 5:42 left in the third quarter.

Belfry could gain only two yards on the next series of downs and punted out to the Hazard 40. With 3:00 left in the quarter, the Dogs moved into a single wing formation for the first time in two years and stepped quickly to the 30 on 11 and six-yard scampers by Morgan and an 11-yard run by Hogg, his longest of the evening. But Bogar intercepted a Morgan pass (the first interception of a Morgan pass this season) and Belfry took over on their 28.

Belfry and Hazard traded punts before the Pirates made their last offensive gasp of the game. They took the ball on their 33 and moved to the Hazard 48 before being forced to punt.

Hazard took over on the nine with 3:38 to go and began a painful drive upfield to run out the clock. Reynolds and Hogg alternated to the 19 for a first, then Cox, Hogg and Reynolds carried to the 23 and 1/2. With a fourth-and-six inch situation facing them, the Bulldogs daringly gambled for the first down and Cox shoved the nose of the ball approximately one inch past the chain for the first.

Morgan gained one on a sneak, but Robinson lost nine on a sweep and it appeared Hazard would have to give Belfry one last crack at the goal; however, Morgan rolled right and stepped through the Pirate defense on a scintillating 17-yard run, leaving the Canines with another 4th-and-six-inch situation.

Combs rammed over left right tackle for the first and the super-charged Belfry line could only cover Morgan as he dropped on the ball twice to run the clock out.

This was an important Region 4. AA win and it now appears only Jenkins stands in Hazard's way of taking the Section 2 title.

Napier Falls Before Whitesburg In Penalty-Marred 39-19 Game

M.C. Napier dropped a 39-19 decision to Whitesburg Friday night in a game that contained what Napier coach Ed Wilson called the "most flagrant violations of the refereeing code that I have ever seen."

Wilson cited one incident in particular that demoralized his fired-up Navajos early in the game. After stopping the Jacks cold on their first offensive series, Whitesburg punted to the Napier 33.

The Napier center partially blocked the ball and collided with the punter and a flag was tossed.

On downfield, the Napier back called for a fair catch and was buried under by Yellow-jacket tacklers, therefore making each side guilty of off-setting penalties, but the fair catch violation was ignored and Napier was penalized not from the original line of scrimmage, but from the point where the Navajo back was tackled. This was,

The second half was just as bad for Whitesburg, if not worse, as the refs turned the red flags on them for awhile.

All told, 275 yards in penalties were called, with Napier drawing 175 and Whitesburg 100. Napier was hurt again by another questionable call early in the game when star halfback Jim McAlarnis intercepted a pass in his end zone and set sail down the sideline for a clear touchdown, but the officials blew the play dead and ruled that intercepted passes in the end zone cannot be run out, which is, of course, wrong.

McAlarnis and William Wright put on one-man offensive shows for their respective teams, with Mac rushing for 204 yards on 16 carries and two touchdowns; Wright picked up 198 yards on the ground and scored five TD's. One of McAlarnis' runs was a brilliant 75-yarder straight up the middle of Whitesburg's defense.

Wilson, who was very disgusted with the officiating, said one of nine to Hughes, as he "Brother, after you live, eat, breathe, and die with your kids, it hurts to see them hurt because some officials have neglected to study their rule books. The refereeing was demoralizing to both teams."

Wilson pointed out that several Whitesburg fans got up and stomped out of the stadium, fed up with the farce going on before them. "My kids paid the price & they wanted the game; we are nothing but proud of them," the Navajo coach added, in mentioning his standouts, he praised the entire team's effort, but pinpointed the running of McAlarnis, the passing and generalship of Mickey Joe Fields the running of George Ballard, who was injured before the game, and the offensive and defensive effort of Martin Allen, William Hughes, Ken Finnison, Jerry Wooton, Tommy Brook, and LeRoy Rutherford.

Fields threw two scoring passes, one of 12 yards to Mac and one of nine to Hughes, as he completed eight of 18 Ballard, picked up 21 yards on four carries, having several runs nullified by penalties.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

PCDA Meeting at Power Co., Sept. 29

Paul Keen — County Agricultural Agent

Perry County Development Association:

The Economic Opportunities Act and proposals for projects for Perry County will be discussed at the Development Association Meeting at Kentucky Power Company on Tuesday, September 29th at 7:00 p.m.

Floyd Hall, Chairman of Perry County Development Association, stated that the Development Association is very anxious to assist any group in preparation and assembling of data for projects that come under the "Poverty" bill. The State Department of Commerce, U. S. Government, and University of Kentucky and other Federal Agencies will provide needed assistance.

Protect Stored Beans, and Peas from Weevils:
Beans and peas stored at home for future use are often damaged by weevils. Storing in tight containers will prevent infestation during storing. Use plastic bags, metal containers, glass jars or other right containers. However, infestation often occurs during drying period. To kill weevils that may be present when peas or beans are stored put 1 teaspoon carbon tetrachloride per 5 lbs. beans or peas into the container with stored project and seal tightly. If kept sealed for 24 hours or longer the carbon tetrachloride will kill any weevils present.

Carbon tetrachloride will not harm either the food value or germinating ability of beans or peas. The gas will escape as soon as sealed container is opened; beans and peas protected in this way are quite safe for eating purposes.

Home Storing of Vegetables:
Home storage enables the gardener to enjoy fresh produce from his garden long after harvest time, provided he selects only high quality vegetables that go into storage. Good Storage places may be unheated home basement, heated home basement, storage cellars under homes, outdoor storage cellars either above or below ground and storage pits. Listed below are best storage conditions for common vegetables:

Late Cabbage: freezing point 30.3 degrees, store in pit, trench or outdoor cellar, store in moderately moist place and keep as near 32 degrees as possible.

Onions: freezing point 30.6 degrees F, store in any cool dry place, keep dry and as near 32 degrees as possible.

Peppers: freezing point 30.7 degrees F, keep in unheated basement or room at about 45 degrees F in moderately moist place; will store for 2 or 3 weeks.

Irish Potatoes: freezing point 30.9 degrees F, store in pit or in storage cellar, keep at 35 de-

State 'Detectives' Find Epidemic Culprit

"SLEEPING SICKNESS," or encephalitis virus, is the object of this laboratory test by Mrs. Elizabeth Loasby, microbiologist, and Dr. B. F. Brown in the State Health Department at Frankfort. Dr. Brown is director of the Division of Laboratory Services. They are looking for virus response in blood specimens. State health workers identified the virus causing the disease as the "St. Louis type." This encephalitis virus was the one causing the recent Boyle County epidemic. With this identification, mosquito control programs helped to control the epidemic in Boyle.
